Captured pot plane gone with the wind

by STEVE GOLUB

The Aero Commander twin-engine plane abandoned near Florence on September 4 and believed to be outfitted for marijuana smuggling has flown the coop.

The Sheriff's Department had left the plane where it was found, in a pasture about 2 miles southwest of Florence, until they could get a court order to move it to a more secure place.

BUT LAST WEEK, while the plane was unguarded, someone got in and flew it to Memphis, Tennessee. A spokesman for the Sheriff's Department said it is believed the same person or persons who abandoned the plane came back and got it.

Authorities located the plane in a Memphis airport, but did not apprehend the pilot.

From the description of the pilot, authorities think he may be a well known drug smuggler.

Authorities did not release the pilot's name, but said they think it is the same person that bought the plane last August in Memphis for $31,500, giving an abandoned house in Austin as his address.

IT IS BELIEVED he returned the plane to the dealer in Memphis where he bought it because he still owed money on it.

Sheriff's Deputies had removed a minor part from the electrical system of the plane to prevent it from being easily started, but whoever took the plane removed a battery cable from a pick-up and was able to use it to start the plane.

Because there was a quantity of marijuana in it, there is a possibility that Williamson County can legally seize and take possession of the plane.

IF IT IS awarded to the county, the fact that it is in Tennessee will present no great problem, said a Sheriff's Department spokesman.

The Sheriff's Department did not have the personnel to maintain continuous surveillance of the plane for several weeks, said a Sheriff's Deputy.

Dove hunters in the Florence area saw a plane go down behind some trees on Sunday, September 4, and reported it on C.B. radio thinking the plane might have crashed.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY Sheriff's Deputies, Florence Constable P. W. Hood, Highway Patrol units, and an Army helicopter from Fort Hood located the plane.

Bank soon to see seventh president

New owners have plentiful banking experience

By CHARMAIN HARRIS

Established in 1893, the First National Bank of Georgetown will soon see its seventh bank president in 84 years, when the new owners officially take over in the next few weeks.

William R. Eanes, president of the bank since the death of his father E. H. Eanes in 1959, announced his resignation just before lunchtime Wednesday saying that he plans to retire and has sold his interest in the bank.

New owners of the institution are J. B. McDuff of Burnet, Ted C. Connell, Paul Goode and Carroll N. Sullivan, all of Killeen. The four also own controlling interest in several other banks in central Texas and Connell said that their objective is to "build the bank by building the community."

The First National Bank of Georgetown was chartered May 1, 1890 and was originally organized by Captain Emzy Taylor, who was also elected the bank's first president.

The present bank facility was constructed in 1968 and replaced a two-story stone structure on the northwest corner of the Georgetown Square.

E. H. Eanes, father of retiring president William R. Eanes, first joined the staff of the First National Bank in 1906 when he was elected bookkeeper. He was elected president in 1936 and served in that capacity until his death. The younger Eanes began as general bookkeeper in late 1945. Following his father's footsteps, he was named president in 1956.

boast of plentiful banking experience. As partners they control the Heights State Bank in Harker Heights, Cove State Bank in Copperas Cove, Citizens State Bank in Bastrop and First National Bank in Rosebud.

Connell is president of Connell Chevrolet Company Inc. in Killeen where he has also served two terms as Mayor. He has been in business in the central Texas area since 1946 and his investments include ranches in both San Saba County and Bell County. He is a past president of the Killeen Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Board of Directors of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, who selected him "Young Man of the Year" in both 1955 and 1960.

McDuff, of Burnet, is vice chairman of the Board of Directors of Cen-Tel Telephone Company with properties in northern Texas, the Houston area and the central Texas area including Killeen and Salado. He is a past president of the Burnet Chamber of Commerce board of directors and is also vice chairman of the board of First State Bank in Burnet. McDuff was elected Mayor of the city of Burnet in 1967 and served until 1971.

Goode is president of the Goode Development Company and the Goode Construction Company, both in Killeen, and is primarily interested in land development and housing development in the Central Texas area. He is a past mayor pro-tem of Killeen and is presently serving on the city council. He is also on the Board of Directors of the Killeen Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Crockett, Sullivan is the youngest of the four partners and a graduate of Texas Tech University. He is presently serving as president of the Cove State Bank in Copperas Cove and he is the chief executive officer of Heights State Bank in Harker Heights and Citizens State Bank of Bastrop. Following his college graduation Sullivan was employed by the Commerce Bank in Houston, then by the State Banking Commission as the chief bank examiner of the Austin district. Following the state job he was employed as the executive vice president of North Austin State Bank.

Pulling Hair

by LINDA SCARBROUGH

Last month, my dad asked me to poke around and find out from my nearly limitless sources on Wall Street about the vagaries of the municipal bond racket. Exactly how are municipal bond ratings arrived at — and is an expensive journey from Podunk, Anywhere, to the Big Apple to make a pitch in person for better ratings really worth the investment?

FOR THOSE OF YOU who haven't been following the story, here is the background. In early August, the Georgetown Independent School District sent a delegation to New York City to meet with bond rating specialists at Standard and Poor's and Moody's Investment Service — the Big Two in the rating game — and to make a personal appeal for a better GISSD rating.

Four men made the trip: Curtis B. Adrian, financial advisor to GISSD from First Southwest Company of Austin, John Thomas, school board chairman, Jack Frost, superintendent of schools, and Jerry Graham, GISSD business manager. The bill for the trip came to about $4,000, which included the charges for the bond ratings from Standard and Poor's and Moody's.

At the time, our school district had decent, if not overwhelmingly impressive ratings of BBB from Standard & Poor's, and BAA Moody's. In two weeks, GISSD would be selling a $1.8 million bond issue, and the price and interest rate from the bond sale would to a large extent depend on the ratings GISSD got from the two New York rating services.

THE STORY ENDED WELL. GISSD's Standard & Poor's rating improved one notch from BBB to BBB+, and Moody's rating inched from BAA to BAA1. The bond sale went well, panning out the effective rating 5.4263%.

But the question remained: Was the trip worth it? Well, I did poke around and it took awhile, but I finally came up with some answers. I found myself a nice specialist in municipal bonds at a leading New York investment firm, who agreed to talk about the problem, as long as his name wasn't mentioned. His opinions, I might add, were confirmed by several other bond market specialists. Here is what he said:

"These trips are standard practice, especially since it's been since 1972 when they (GISSD) last came to market for a rating. The fees for both bond ratings were probably around $2,000, so I'd say that GISSD got a bargain for $4,000. What people are buying when they buy GISSD bonds is the rating. Those ratings mean almost everything to a small issuer like Georgetown. So $2,000 to improve your

Beautification plans begin for city

Plans for a community beautification program were tossed around during a public meeting Wednesday in the Georgetown City Council chambers, and six tentative committees were set up.

The project is being co-sponsored by the City of Georgetown and the Greater Georgetown Area Chamber of Commerce, with Chamber Manager Vivian Wood and Community Development Coordinator Jim Colbert in charge.

Committees for publicity, public relations, streets-highways-parking lots, physical improvements, yards and gardens, and general property improvement were decided upon and another meeting Oct. 5 will be for the purpose of establishing committee members and charging them with the needs and objectives of each group.

Colbert, after pointing out that Georgetown will be in competition with other cities across the state in the 5,000-10,000 population range for awards of excellence from the Governor's Community Achievement Awards Program, said he felt this area should emphasize citizen participation, community wide beautification, property improvement and economic development, which are the four major points in the competition.

This will be an all-volunteer effort with no monetary rewards for workers, but it is expected that many interested groups and individual citizens of Georgetown will take active parts.

A tentative timetable was submitted by Colbert and Wood to those attending the opening meeting with Oct. 15 set as the deadline for identifying needs, goals, objectives and resource personnel, and organizing committees.

From Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 each committee will prepare plans, start publicity and come up with slogan contests.

Implementation of the program will be from Nov. 15 to March 1 with March 1 to March 31 a time for preparation and submission of the narrative summary.

It was asked that the Georgetown Historical Society have an input into the plans for any tearing down of old buildings and buildings in the city. The University of Texas School of Architecture was revealed to be doing a study of the square with plans to suggest ways to improve the architectural structures while still retaining their unique qualities which have landed the square on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. cut off the gas supply to Crystal City last week for failure to pay a $750,000 bill. The federal aid will help pay off the debt, and in the meantime, furnish electric plates and hot meals.

Enrollment at Southwestern University climbed 3.2 percent to establish a new high for the state's oldest university.

A total of 963 students — 30 more than last year — were on the rolls as registration closed, according to Registrar Connie Venable.

"And for the first time that I know of, all of our dormitory space is full," added Admissions Director Grady Anderson.

The count of full time equivalent students has climbed past the 900 mark for the first time all the way up to 927.

And the Southwestern students have signed up for 14,218 hours of classes — also a new high — compared to 13,620 hours last year.

PROSPECTS FOR DELAYING RETIREMENT

Most every fast food restaurant in Chicago has a sign out front: 'HIRING' or 'WAITERS WANTED' or 'IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY'.

Yet the government continues to pay $2,417 Chicagoans for not working.

IF CONGRESS WILL ABOLISH the mandatory retirement age, many of those unfilled jobs will provide extra income for the able elderly.

Without waiting for the federal government to act, some states are proceeding to abolish mandatory retirement at 65: California, Alaska, Maine.

Since the advent of Social Security in the 1930s it has been the custom and has become the law — that every worker should have to stop work at age 65.

Most unions and most businesses like it like that. Yet for those who want to keep working, the idea of forced retirement is a violation of their rights.

GEORGE SHERMAN, personnel director for Midland-Ross in Cleveland, says, "Mandatory retirement is a terrible waste of human resources. Some of our best, most experienced people are forced out."

His company makes exceptions to the sixty-five-and-out rule.

Nonetheless, most corporations want employees to retire at 65 or sooner and they fear that legally to protect the employee's job past that age would make it difficult for an employer to dismiss an inefficient worker.

CBS finds that it is having to relax its mandatory retirement rule in its Steinway unit because there are not enough younger piano makers.

THE WALL STREET Journal's survey on this subject revealed that many industries are enforcing retirement at 65 "with exceptions."

A Roper survey reveals that two-thirds of working Americans want to retire early, however, when Roper asked people closest to retirement, those sixty and older, only one-third wanted early retirement.

ROPER ANALYSTS infer from their findings that what most workers really want is the freedom to make the retirement decision for themselves.

The sense of the Congress now seems to favor some modification of the mandatory retirement laws.

The results will be economically significant:

Would reduce the burden on overburdened Social Security.

Would add to the economic power of people in their sixties.

Would require companies which want to encourage earlier retirement to fatten their pensions.

One of the factors encouraging elderly workers to keep working is inflation. What might have been a comfortable retirement income ten years ago no longer is.

And there is still a "joy in working" for some persons — a fulfillment of the need to be needed — a reason to get up in the morning — which many younger persons have not yet experienced.

Teaching us how

The folks down in Crystal City showed the rest of us how to deal with high utility bills.

Just don't pay 'em.

MAKE A LOT OF NOISE while you aren't paying and Senator Edward Kennedy up east will come flying in with federal dollars.

Incidentally, Cong. Pickle has taken a dim view of the federal action.

"If Sen. Kennedy, who worked out this deal with CSA, is so concerned about our utility prices, why don't he and his East Coast companions try to help out the millions of others who were deceived by this scowflaw company?" said Pickle in a statement released by his office.

"If the Community Services Administration is going to hand over a quarter of a million dollars to Crystal City to pay its bill to Lo-Vaca, I don't see why they can't do the same for Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, San Marcos, Bastrop, La Grange, Pflugerville, Dime Box and every other Central Texas community that has been victimized by Lo-Vaca," Pickle said.

"The concern shown by CSA and Sen. Kennedy in this case is laudable, but I think that if they take this action without looking at the entire utility situation in Central Texas they may be causing more problems than they are solving," he added.

We agree.

IN OUR OPINION, which usually isn't worth a bundle, some good could come from all the publicity generated by Crystal City's stubborn refusal to pay. If more of us would dig in our heels and refuse to go along with enormous price increases being thrown in our paths the effect might be nothing short of remarkable.

Those Crystal City folks just got tired of being ripped off. Shouldn't we all?

Soccer conference?

The community of Georgetown, which didn't support Southwestern University's football program over a long period of years, has missed the gridiron activity on Snyder Field since it was discontinued. Most of us would like to see the Pirates back in the gridiron wars — doing battle with Austin College, Howard Payne, Abilene Christian College, A&I, Trinity, Southwest Tex as University and those folks on The Hill in Austin.

REALISTICALLY, HOWEVER, we know that football at Southwestern would not receive suf-

Nader takes aim at sports giants

By Phil Elderkin

Los Angeles

Consumer crusader Ralph Nader may soon be going to bat for all those millions of fans who spend relatively large amounts of money each year to attend a variety of sports events.

Mr. Nader wants to build a nationwide organization of fans with enough clout to hold down ticket prices, improve the quality of ball park and arena food, stop parking lot ripoffs, and change anything else that puts the consumer in an unfavorable position.

Mr. Nader is currently researching the project with one of his special assistants, writer-lawyer Peter Gruenstein. They want to make sure a fan alliance could work and that enough consumers would be willing to spend a modest amount of money (maybe $9 a year) to support it.

"We think it's time that somebody went out and challenged the owners of sports teams on their prices and their business practices," Mr. Gruenstein explains. "While they may tell you that their ticket scales are set in direct relation to player salaries, we don't believe this to be true. We are of the opinion that owners often make huge profits and that they simply charge all they think the traffic will bear."

"In no other business that we know of can players and stadiums be depreciated each year the way they are in pro sports," he continued. "We know there are a lot of professional teams, although they fail to show a profit on paper, that actually make money."

Mr. Gruenstein says that sports fans are probably the largest and most unrepresented group in the country and have been for a long time.

"I don't think the sports fan should run baseball, for example," he remarks. "A corporation or group of owners do have huge investments in franchises and basically they can't let outsiders interfere with their day-to-day operation.

"But how many fans do you think were consulted when the New York Mets traded their best pitcher and possibly the team's favorite player, Tom Seaver, to the Cincinnati Reds? You know the answer to that one as well as I do and it had to be zero, the way it's always been."

"Now everybody knows that happened because of a clash of personalities that led to a management decision. But maybe if the Mets knew there was an organization out there that was going to boycott their ball park for a substantial period of time because of the Seaver thing, they wouldn't make a deal like that."

What Mr. Nader and Mr. Gruenstein want to give the fan for his $9 is some solid investigative work in the way of sports is running its store. They want to educate members with a monthly newsletter, call unfair practices to the attention of Congress, and gain some price relief for the fan who cannot spend $50 every time he wants to go to a ball game.

There also might be regular questionnaires dealing with such subjects as: Do you want interleague baseball? Should pro football return the runback, with all its built-in excitement to the game, by making teams kick off from their own 25-yard line instead of their 40? Or should pro basketball award three points for every hoop scored beyond a 25-foot radius?

Certain to come up for investigation are winner-take-all tennis matches where the winner does not take all, boxing tournaments where promoters ignore ratings in putting together a card, or any deceptive advertising connected with televised sports.

"There are all kinds of issues that are out there just waiting to be investigated and cleaned up," Mr. Gruenstein says. "While a boycott of games is probably the last thing we'd ask for as a means of leverage for the fan, it could work if nearly 20 or 30 percent of our proposed state membership went along with it."

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — Many taxpayers in Texas marked Oct. 1 by receiving notices of school district taxes — but what the effect of the school finance bill passed in the special session has been on those taxes remains unclear.

Some of that uncertainty may be resolved this week, however, when the Texas Education Agency should receive the answers to a survey of the state's school districts on what they did for or to their taxpayers this year.

RAYMON BYNUM OF TEA says a brief, informal questionnaire to districts is due back Wednesday — and TEA hopes those results will give some indication of the impact of the special session bill.

Lots of folks, Bynum notes, have been asking about that matter.

School finance will be back next session, of course, and the session after that, and so on, as far as anyone can guess.

And it's the subject of interim studies as well.

And while the bill passed by the special session was intended to give some relief to school districts from having to make tax increases, no one's sure yet whether it did or not.

Jim McGrew, Texas Research League, says TRL is following the matter with interest — but that all it has to go on at present is impressions rather than hard statistical data.

THOSE IMPRESSIONS, he says, indicate that most districts are raising taxes or keeping them at the same level.

Some districts have had decreases in their rate, but are still collecting more than in previous years because the value of the property being taxes has increased, he feels.

There also may be decreases, he adds, in districts which have paid off bond issues.

"But I'd be very surprised if there are more than a handful of districts where they collected less this year than last," McGrew concludes.

Municipal Advisory Council of Texas also is collecting data on school district taxes, planning to send out questionnaires Oct. 17.

However, MACT doesn't plan to make any analysis of the questionnaires; they will be studied, though, on an individual basis.

ALSO TAKING A LOOK at what districts are doing is the Speaker's Office, where assistants to Bill Clayton are working on a questionnaire which will be sent out in approximately six weeks.

Clayton recently designated Rep. Tom Massey of San Angelo, chairman of the Public Education Committee, to chair the Commission on Public School Finance, which will be looking at new formulas for education — and their effects on taxes.

And there will be work by Senate and House committees, of course, and various private and public groups, and by lawmakers who weren't satisfied with the bill which was approved by the special session.

One of the areas which the House Public Education Committee is charged with considering is the question of just what constitutes a "minimum education."

Critics of the Minimum Foundation Program formula argued during the session that the program doesn't really provide for a "minimum" — so the committee's work may allow that question to be addressed by the Legislature.

And once the "minimum" is determined, lawmakers should be able to get a better handle on the question of what constitutes "enrichment" — one of the more troublesome aspects of the question of funding public schools.

WHATEVER THE RESULTS of the studies and questionnaires and surveys may be, one thing should be a safe bet — and that is that school districts will be continuing to depend on property taxes, however much they have increased or decreased this year, for years to come.

That means that Texas taxpayers are likely to be facing the same thing on future Oct. 1's as they did this year — with the question being when, rather than if, that bill will be up again.

AUSTIN—Angry farmers marched—or drove—on the state capitol last week, protesting low prices for their products.

Their trucks and tractors roared up Austin's broad Congress Ave.

More than 300 attended a rally on the state capitol steps to hear the farmers complain of a price squeeze which is driving many off the farm.

They got a sympathetic ear from Gov. Dolph Briscoe, House Speaker Bill Clayton and Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

"American agriculture is one of the greatest success stories of the world," Briscoe told the unhappy farmers. "Unfortunately, it is not a success story for the individual farmers and ranchers."

Ron Butler of the rally-sponsoring Texas Farmers Union said farm prices are worse than they have been since the great depression of the mid-30's.

Butler said the demonstrating farmers are trying to make people aware that their sources of food may be in jeopardy.

ficient support in Georgetown. It takes a heap of cash to run a winning football program and there simply aren't enough people living in and around Georgetown to support one.

An alternative, it seems to us, would be the creation of a soccer conference, which might be the first such minor league in the nation. It would certainly generate a lot of publicity, because the people and the media are becoming increasingly interested in this sport of world-wide renown.

Soccer has several points in its favor over football — it needs much less money and could exist on smaller crowds. It's exciting and the coming sport of America, moving forward faster than any other. Right here in Georgetown there are hundreds of kids enthusiastically learning the game.

Brown called for a new national food policy that "does not change with each change in administration."

Briscoe, Brown and Clayton met privately with Farmers Union leaders to plan a push for food policy.

Farmers Union President Jay Naman said a nationwide farmers' demonstration is planned in Washington—where it may do more good.

Democrats to Meet

Key state and national Democratic party groups will hold meetings in Texas next month.

The Commission on Presidential Nomination and Party Structure will convene here October 5 for a hearing on its proposals for Democratic delegate selection.

October 22, the State Democratic Executive Committee will meet in Amarillo to review a dozen state party rules change recommendations.

Recommendations before the national group (known as the Winograd Commission) may prove controversial. Critics claim they tend to move back toward the winner-take-all system for presidential preference primary delegate elections.

PUC Collects $9 Million

The Texas Public Utility Commission collected more than $9 million in gross receipts assessments for fiscal 1977—a 38.75 per cent increase over 1976.

Largest amounts paid were Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, $2.8 million; Houston Lighting and Power, $1.4 million; Texas Utilities Company, $1.8 million; Central and Southwest Corporation, $888,854 and City Public Service Board of San Antonio, $371,711.

PUC is authorized to collect one-sixth of one per cent of gross receipts for all utilities within its jurisdiction. The commission budget for utility regulation is $3.8 million for fiscal 1978 and $3 million fiscal 1979.

Appointments Announced

Ruth Forbis Kirby of Littlefield was reappointed to the State School Land Board by Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Gov. Briscoe appointed Rep. Tom C. Massey of San Angelo to head the new Legislative Commission on Public School Finance which is assigned to develop a revised system of financing public education. Massey also heads a special committee studying financing of the Southern Regional Education Board—a 14-state higher education-

Jean is a charter member of the Williamson County Board of Realtors and she has served on the Board of Directors for nearly three years. She is also a member of the Texas Association of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors.

East Williamson County

Jerry N. Pavlik

EXCUSE my bragging mood today. This morning I ran into Jimmy Heap in a coffee shop, and that triggered a story a local man told me about his experience on a flight from Chicago to Austin. He met some big shot promoter of shows and radio programs. Naturally, they were talking about music and musicians and soon the conversation turned to Jimmy Heap.

The promoter simply couldn't believe that a celebrity like Jimmy lived in a small town in Central Texas. . . but he did and still does, and he is the same Jimmy, wearing the same size hat he did when he played his first dance in some country dance hall in East Williamson county. He is still active conducting a dance orchestra with a full complement of musical instruments (not just a guitar and a large amplifier) and he has the musicians who really know their instruments. He is also involved in home building and development on a large scale. But that's another story.

WHAT in the world is happening to our good Texas weather? My little blue book says that on September 29 last year the morning temperature was 58 deg. Fahrenheit and at 3:30 p.m. it was 76, with a 50% chance for rain. This morning it was 76 with prediction of 95 in the afternoon and no rain in sight. All based on reports from Austin weather bureau.

IN THIS nation-wide publication it says that the two most repeated remarks by the old people in rest homes, are: "When I was young I had to walk several miles to school" and "I remember when that whole part of town was just a pasture." You know, lots of times I catch myself saying something like that, and if you're on my side of 65 you probably did, too.

SHORT SHORTS: Jack Roberts, manager of the Taylor Chamber of Commerce is an accomplished artist. His portrait of Gene McAlpine is about as faithful image as I've ever seen of anyone done by a professional painter. . . Rev. Jewel Johnson of Coupland compiled and published a booklet titled "The City on a Hill" . . . Coupland is the little jewel of a city in the East End where they re-did their railroad depot and transformed it into a museum. . . Granger has no slums. . . The new manager of the Anderson-Clayton cotton mill complex in Thorndale, M. A. Elms and his family lives in Taylor, on Gladnell street in the new west side addition. . . Bob Ponkoney built another modern apartment home. It was "full up" before the building was finished. . . Most of the lawns in Taylor were watered during the summer dry heat and remind one of an oasis in a desert. Some knowledgeable people say that the dead shrubbery and some branches of trees are not necessarily victims of the drought. There is something else involved, in the atmosphere. Maybe so.

Older county residents to hold forum on Oct. 11

Two public hearings for older residents of Williamson County will be held on October 11.

The hearings will be a forum for older persons and other interested citizens to discuss their needs and ways to meet those needs.

Sponsored by the Capital Area Planning Council Area Agency on Aging, the meetings will be on October 11 at 4 p.m. in Georgetown and at noon in Taylor.

The theme of the hearings is "Search and Discovery."

Those present will search for answers to questions like:

- What are the interests and needs of older persons in your community?

- What contributions, in talents, skills and wisdom, are older people making to help solve their own problems?

- How can the community help the older citizens meet their needs and realize their potentials as contributing members of our society?

- Who are the people and organizations that could help but are not yet involved, such as church or community groups?

Information presented by older persons at the county hearings about their interests and priorities may be included in the CAPCO Plan for Aging Programs for 1978.

Also, reports from the Williamson County meetings will be presented at a November 2 wrap-up meeting in Austin to be attended by older persons from all ten counties in the CAPCO area.

The Taylor meeting will be at the Southside Senior Center, 701 Bland Street. The Georgetown hearing will be at the Madella Hilliard Center, 803 West 8th Street. Grace Bulgerin of Taylor and Jim Isbell of Georgetown, both members of the CAPCO Aging Advisory Council are serving as Co-Chairpersons to plan the Williamson County hearings.

For more information or for transportation to the hearings please call 863-5010 in Georgetown or 352-5523 in Taylor.

Coaches' Day set

"Competitive Athletics: An Educational Experience" are the words that circle the decal that declares October 7, 1977 as National Coaches' Day.

These words also surround the efforts of girls, boys, women and men as they strive to improve themselves as individuals and prove themselves as teams.

Athletics an educational experience? The answer is obvious when you watch dedicated student/athletes listening and learning from their teacher/coaches. They practice their lessons on fields and courts instead of with written homework assignments and they are evaluated through individual and team statistics rather than answers to test questions.

But in both spheres of academics and athletics, the same qualities and attitudes apply: dedication, motivation, discipline, interest and desire.

The student/athlete steps from classroom to locker room just as the teacher/coach changes from dress clothes to shorts and T-shirts.

Each has the "best of both worlds" and is proof that physical exercise sharpens the mind to absorb more information whether it be from textbook or playbook.

The coach who coordinates this learning process must embody characteristics such as firmness, fairness, perceptiveness, optimism, honesty, diplomacy, kindness and patience in addition to being qualified to share his/her sports knowledge with beginning and advanced participants.

To recognize the time and talents coaches share with young people, Texas High School Coaches' Association (THSCA) Executive Vice-President L. W. McConachie and Texas Congressman J. J. "Jake" Pickle have worked to have October 7, 1977 designated National Coaches' Day. Congratulate the coach of your choice.

He and his family have purchased a home at 2913 Gabriel View in Georgetown.

Chili Cookoff proceeds go to United Way

The First Annual Capital City Invitational Chili Cookoff will bring to Austin the top thirty chili cookers in the south in quest of the elusive "best bowl of chili" on October 15.

The "chili-heads" will be giving more than just heartburn to their fellow man Saturday, as proceeds will go to the United Way Agencies.

The Capital City Cookoff, to be held at Hancock Center, is not for stomachs only — chili lovers' ears will get a helping of country music from Pop Nelson's Band.

There will also be contests for the spectators, like Egg Tossing and the Lemon Roll. A favorite of the crowds is the Stick Horse contest, known in chili circles as the most elite of all spectator events. And at celebrated chili cookoffs, it remains the true pinnacle of achievement to win the Moseying contest.

For a small donation to the United Way, spectators receive their own chili-tasting bowl to sample the cookers' art.

Beer, soft drinks and munchies will also be sold with proceeds going to United Way Agencies.

Pizza Hut opens doors

Pizza lovers of Georgetown, take heart. There's a new Pizza Hut in your future — in fact, it's not in the future, it's in the present.

The Pizza Hut, under construction for the past three months in Southwestern Plaza on North Austin Avenue, opened for business at 2 p.m. Thursday under the management of vivacious Herma Turner.

Mrs. Turner, who says she's from "a little bit of all over," is currently living in Belton and will be commuting to Georgetown to operate the Pizza Hut.

This is her third Pizza Hut to manage (she had one for two years in Gatesville and another for four months in Ft. Arthur) and she says she's very proud to be opening the new business in Georgetown.

Bill Bloodworth, area Pizza Hut Manager from Belton, was also on hand for the opening day at the new business and said, "The key to our business is that we are family-oriented. Good service and a quality product are what we strive to have and we generally appeal to all ages from seven to seventy. Our average age customer is about 30."

With Georgetown High School close by, it is only natural to assume a lot of the new Pizza Hut's business will come from the GHS students. "Yes, we expect to get a lot of them, especially for our noon buffet," Turner says. "But at night our main customers will probably be families."

The Pizza Hut will feature a $2.19 noon buffet from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day except Saturday with customers "eating all they can hold" for that price.

Several coupon specials will be appearing in issues of the Williamson County SUN and the Sunday SUN, which will provide readers of the newspapers with money saving pizza buys.

The Pizza Hut will be open 11 a.m. to midnight each day except Friday and Saturday, on which days it will stay open until 1 a.m.

Applications for cooks, waiters and waitresses are now being taken at the Pizza Hut for men or women over the age of 17.

Watercolorist to exhibit at Alma Thomas gallery

By CHARMAIN HARRIS

"I wanted to be like my mother," said watercolor artist Jan Waide of Georgetown, "she was an advertising artist when I was a child and that is how I got interested."

Waide, whose husband John teaches religion and philosophy at Southwestern University, is a graduate of the Harris School of Art in Nashville, Tennessee and has also studied liberal arts at the University of Texas in Austin.

Though the young artist says that she has concentrated on watercolors lately she is also very accomplished with oils and with pencil and charcoal drawings.

"I like watercolor painting because of the way it can capture light," she said with a smile, "it seems so fresh."

She added that watercolors seem best suited to nature scenes (her specialty) and to portraits. "Watercolor portraits are challenging—it is much different than oil portraits."

The Waides moved to Georgetown last June and since that time the artist has spent many hours sketching and painting local scenery. Most of the 44 paintings that she will exhibit in the gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Building on the Southwestern Campus are of local landscapes and five are "portraits" of stately Georgetown homes.

Th Virgil F. Carlson home on Olive Street, the John B.

JAN WAIDE

Chapman home on Olive, the Farley W. Snell home on College Street and the T. W. Herbert Jr. home on Main Street have been carefully reproduced in watercolors. The SU exhibit will be Waide's first one-man show. It will open Tuesday, October 4, and remain in the gallery until Saturday, October 29.

For the last month Waide has been working full time just getting the show together. She said that she hasn't had much time to paint lately because she has been so busy framing, matting and selecting paintings to display.

The 44 paintings chosen for exhibition all are watercolors and Waide said, "I picked ones I liked because of their composition or technique."

Waide has also recently submitted two watercolor paintings to each the Watercolor Art Society of Houston and to the Southwest Watercolor Society in Dallas for competition in juried shows.

"I have announced my candidacy for Governor of Texas. I'm confident I can and will win."

"According to a statewide poll, 6 out of 10 people are ready for a new governor. The poll only confirmed what I've been hearing all over Texas this year. People are against the idea of anyone holding the state's highest office for 10 years. No governor has asked for 10. No governor has been given 10. It goes against a tradition that's as old as Texas itself."

"There are other reasons folks are ready for a new governor. State spending has jumped from $3 billion to $8 billion the last 6 years. The Dallas Morning News reported, during Briscoe's years in office, nearly all state government will have gone on a spending spree. And the Governor has done nothing to discourage it. He's vetoed less than two-tenths of one percent of the two previous budgets and not one penny's worth of the current appropriations; it's the first time that's happened in twenty years. In a related story, the News pointed to the fact that during the Briscoe years the number of employees paid by the state has risen by 50,000."

"And, while we've heard the boast of 'no new taxes,' we've seen our property taxes increase by $1 billion along with substantial hikes in state licensing fees."

"I've traveled the state this year, visiting with folks. Whatever their overall assessment, most Texans lacked confidence in the present governor's persuasiveness and vision. They felt he had failed to measure up to their expectations and to live up to his promises."

"Texans are hungry for an effective gubernatorial spokesman on energy policy. They are frustrated that our governor hasn't been able to get the Texas viewpoint across in Washington. They are wondering, too, why our governor hasn't been speaking out forcefully for a farm policy that would help our beleaguered farms and ranches."

"I fully agree with the people's assessment; that's why I'm seeking the office of Governor."

"I'm proud of my record as Attorney General and Secretary of State. It shows that I'm not afraid to roll up my sleeves and work hard. It indicates that I have the ability to assemble a capable staff, that I prefer to work closely with people, and that I'm not reluctant to make changes when they can benefit the state. I'll be this kind of governor, given the job."

TV Dialogue

NEAR NEIGHBORS—I was so glad to read how Robert Conrad was able to keep his show on the air for one more season. He sounds like the sort of person who would be from Ohio. I should know, I married an Ohioan Conrad. Please let me know if he was born in Ohio and how long ago? Patricia Conrad, Biloxi, Miss.

Conrad was born a couple of states to the west, in Chicago, Ill., in 1935. But I wouldn't let a little thing like Indiana come between you. By the way, the show won't air until another NBC entry is cancelled, so it'll be a month or so before the Black Sheep are in and on the air.

DOWN THE DRAIN— I don't know why there was such a fuss about Soap. I think it's pretty good, and certainly not offensive. Anyway, is Robert Urich going to be a regular as the tennis pro? I've always been a fan of his. Susan Sylver, Lawton, Okla.

I agree that the only thing shocking about Soap is the furor it created. Too bad it isn't a little funnier, though. Unfortunately, Urich will be bowing out of the show after a few months. The 12th episode will be his last.

joblessness forces a group of people to form a farming commune.

DOG DAYS— Why did they kill off the cute little dog on Little House on the Prairie? Mrs. S. Johnson, Fargo, N.D.

Jack was a terrific dog, but he didn't have enough tricks up his fur to suit Michael Landon, who opted for hiring a new dog. Bandit, who is really named Jeffery, was formerly with the animal show at Universal Studios and makes a good replacement.

EMERGENCY— What's the story with my favorite series, Emergency. Why isn't it on any more. Before it's too late, where can I write to Randy Mantooth and Kevin Tighe? Penny Fleicher, Tampa, Fla.

Can the siren. Emergency is still on, only it will not air weekly. Instead NBC will air occasional two-hour segments overbrimming with enough disasters to make your head spin. They're doing the same thing with Police Story. So, you can still write your favorite paramedics at Universal Studios, Universal City, CA. 91608

PARTNERS IN EVIL

Stella Stevens and Robert Deman are two of the community residents implicated when a couple is slain under mysterious circumstances in NBC Monday Night at the Movies: "Murder in Peyton Place," Oct. 3 (9-11 p.m., ET).

In Defense Of An Assassin

"The Warren Commission doesn't say it all," said Lorne Greene, who will appear in "The Trial Of Lee Harvey Oswald," a drama based on what might have happened if the assassin had lived. Greene explains, "The fact that it is not topical any more does not mean there still aren't more questions and very positive questions, too many witnesses have disappeared or died in a strange way. In what way was he involved? Nothing definitive has been said."

Greene will play Matthew Arnold Weldon, a fictional character who acts as Oswald's defense attorney. Greene says the character he plays is "appointed by the White House. He's supposed to be one of the top defense lawyers in the country. Originally the character is not too happy about taking the case, but he decides, no, that's what this country is all about and makes up his mind to give the best possible defense ... he looks for a reasonable doubt ... I (Weldon) have sufficient ground to believe there were other people involved. Who those people are I ain't gonna tell ya."

Speaking of Weldon's efforts in preparing for the trial, Greene says, "I have my own team of investigators working with me ... I study his record in the Marines ... there are certain tests of him as a rifleman that I do from the sixth floor. All this was done on location. At times it was like deja vu, but it was deja vu because you had actually seen it. It was like it was happening, and it was sometimes a bit scary."

Greene found work in Dallas physically trying. "It was terribly hot down there," he said. "It was 101 degrees the first day I got there and it was 101 degrees till the day I left. It would go up to 140 degrees under the cameras because of the lights. One day I came home from work and lay down on the bed in my air conditioned room for an hour until I could lift up the phone and order something to eat. It was a grueling experience."

Weldon's greatest problem in preparing the defense, Greene says, is "Oswald himself. He became very quiet and would not talk. I bring him to the stand, and I have had two or three conversations with him in prison, showing him pictures, evidence of people he was involved with who were assassinated. He won't talk. Then finally, he says, 'Why are you doing this to me?' I say, 'I'm trying to save you from the electric chair,' and he says, 'Like that?'"

"My whole point is trying to prove he was unwittingly involved in a conspiracy that started as something else and became a conspiracy to kill President Kennedy."

John Pleshette, the actor chosen to play Oswald, bears a striking resemblance to the accused assassin. Greene describes Pleshette as "a young actor and very good ... not too well known yet. He's done a lot of stage work and some TV and film. He does bear a resemblance to Oswald. I met Mrs. Oswald one day and John Pleshette was standing nearby with his shirt off - it was very hot - and she and I were talking, not paying too much attention to John, and after awhile she turned to me and said, 'Lee didn't have hair on his chest.' She was interviewed a number of times in connection with her relationship with Oswald. There are scenes showing how they met in Russia at a dance."

"There are a lot of people who still wonder," Greene said. "Books have been written about it, and are still being written about it. Whenever the subject comes up (people ask): Did he do it himself? Did he do it with others? Was he part of the CIA. He had two black marks against him in the Marines, yet his discharge shows nothing. It's a completely honorable discharge, and they usually put black marks in the discharge. He was taught Russian in the Marines, he tried to get into Cuba, there are many unanswered questions."

About the Bobby Kennedy assassination, "people still say, was Sirhan Sirhan the only assassin? Why has all the evidence disappeared?" Returning to John Kennedy's assassination he added, "Why were some people who wanted to testify before the Warren Commission not called?"

"People are curious. People want to know the absolute truth, if there is such a thing. I am one of those people who would love to have known all the facts and feel that some are missing. It's putting the case to rest."

Of Robert Thompson's script, Greene said, "It's one of the best written scripts I've read and done in a long time. It's one of the best parts I've had since I came to this country. It was super carefully done. ABC had its lawyers go over the script with a fine tooth comb. There are things in it that surprised me a little that they were in ... It's very well acted, well directed. It's going to be an exciting four hours."

"Talking like a lawyer was a bit difficult," Greene said. "Learning the 'legalese' and letting it roll off your tongue as if you'd spoken that way for thirty years ... but creating the character was a joy."

"People say to me, what were you doing in Dallas? When I say I was doing 'The Trial Of Lee Harvey Oswald' they say, 'No kidding? The trial of -.' You get that kind of reaction. There must be some need to know. People still think about it."

Rod Taylor

The time-consuming task in writing about Rod Taylor is deleting the expletives from the basic pronouncements. Taylor has a good deal to say, but it is always punctuated by such colorful language that it becomes laborious separating it from the meaningful content.

He has been described as flamboyant, irascible, irreverent and anti-establishment. He has a flair for life that reminds you of the Errol Flynn and Humphrey Bogart stiles — hard-drinking, outspoken and hard-living.

Yet, through it all, he has scruples, is concerned for his artistic skills and apparently will not be compromised. Although a native Australian, he once demanded his credits be removed from a film by a controversial Italian director, Michelangelo Antonioni, because it was anti-American without reason or purpose. The film was "Zabriskie Point," a strange, violent movie.

Taylor says he believes firmly that the only way to combat violence is to be authentic.

"But I'm a vocal spokesman now against kicking the (expletive deleted) out of a kid selling drugs. I don't care what Baretta says, I think it's ugly," he declares sharply.

Taylor is coming back to television this season. In "Oregon Trail," he portrays Evan Thorpe, a widower with three kids (ages 10 to 17) who packs them up and heads West from

Guides A Wagon Train West

WESTWARD HO -- Rod Taylor has returned to television to battle the elements and hostile Indians, as Evan Thorpe in NBC's new western series The Oregon Trail.

Independence, Mo., with a band of additional pioneers. He becomes the wagon master. It is seen on NBC Wednesdays from 9-10 p.m.

The competition includes ABC's highly successful man-baiting frolic, "Charlie's Angels," in a new time period this season. But at least Taylor won't have Farrah Fawcett-Majors to contend with.

In his inimitable, salty way, Taylor observes, "With three broads on the other channel, and me being a bachelor (actually a widower) I guess I'll hit on every scroungy broad on the wagon train."

This is Taylor's third try at a television series. His first was "Hong Kong," which brought him to the attention of the American public, and paved the way for a movie career in this country. Then there was "Bearcat" in 1971, in which he played a mercenary type. He confesses, "Bearcats' had a good format but turned into a piece of (expletive deleted)."

Taylor is quite candid about his career in recent years. There is not the opportunity that existed in his earlier years, when he starred in such films as "Young Cassidy," "Hotel," "The V.I.P.S." with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, "The Birds" and "The High Commissioner."

They were roles that suited his personality, and unconventional behavior.

"Good movie scripts in terms of my stature are few and far between," he laments. "Actors of my age group are having problems. Roles have to be custom-tailored. I'm only too happy to be working my (expletive deleted) for TV."

This noticeable lack of offers has pushed him into producing his own. There was "Chukka," and another one he scripted, "On A Dead Man's Chest."

Now he owns 20 percent of "Oregon Trail," so he keeps an eye on the administrative end of the production. And he refers to himself as a secret writer (I'm the secret re-writer," he says).

He dabbled in pre-production and confides that he would like to try his hand at directing, too.

Taylor relishes the idea of doing a western on television.

"It is refreshing to have a western," he says wryly. "If I see another cop say 'freeze,' I'll kick the (expletive deleted) set in."

There will be action and drama. He's quick to point out that whatever violence there is in reality is not violence but rather "historic action."

"It's in all the schools," Taylor says defensively. "Indians certainly shot arrows, and cowboys and soldiers used guns."

It is all being shot on location in Arizona. "We're getting away from the Duke Wayne and Monument Valley sort of thing," he notes bitingly. "We don't want dust and more dust, and cactus and more cactus. We want variety ... good looking terrain."

TV Dial-ogue

HORRORS— I used to love to go to the movies and see a double bill of horror movies. It's a shame they don't make them any more. My favorites are the American International quickies, but my question is a bit more high class. How many movie versions of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde were there?

It's always nice to hear from a ghoulish gourmet (is that a poorly chosen word? I'd hate to accuse you of actually engaging in a bit of your own blood-curdling sport). Anyway, there are more versions of the classic Stevenson thriller than even probably you imagined. Selig Polyscope produced one in 1908. There was a Danish production in 1910, another American version, with James Cruz, in 1912, and a British version made in 1913. Then The U.S. again countered in 1913 with King Baggot starring in yet another production. In 1920, Louis Mayer produced a version for Pioneer Films with Sheldon Lewis starring, while over at Paramount John Barrymore was messin' about the lab. Paramount did a re-make in 1932 with Frederic March, which has been on TV. Then Spencer Tracy took over the honors in '41 for MGM, which is probably the version most people today have seen.

James Coburn has been prepping for his directorial debut by gathering helpful hints from Sam Peckinpah. Now NBC has announced that he'll call the shots on an upcoming episode of the Rockford Files. Says Coburn, "This is my first directing assignment - an ambition I've had for a long time. In fact, when I first got into the business, I intended to be a director, but got sidetracked when I theorized that I better know something about acting before trying to direct.

Here's an interesting

guest line-up for a future

Police Woman: composer-

singer Paul Williams, Michael Burns, comedians

Foster Brooks and Louis

Nye and sportscaster

Chick Hearn. . . . Oscar-winner Bette Davis has signed to do the kind of horror-thriller she specialized in some years ago,

only this time it's for TV.

She'll play a mysterious widow with supernatural powers in "Harvest

Home," the best-selling novel by Tom Tryon. . . .

Two of the screen's greatest character actors,

Strother Martin and Jack

Elam have been signed to play the hapless kidnappers in a new ABC production of "The Ransom of Red Chief," the classic O'Henry tale.

The woes and joys of parenthood continue on ABC, as Carol Lynley, Wayne Rogers, Paula Prentiss, Cliff Gorman, Tony Bill and Susan Sullivan create another baby boom in "Having Babies, II." . . . After 25 years, the big moment is finally coming for Charlie Brown - he'll meet the little redhaired girl. CBS will present "It's Your First Kiss Charlie Brown" on Oct. 24. Producer Lee Mendelson said that after much debate, Peanuts creator Charles Schultz said "the time has come." I hope it works out well for ol' Chuck, but with his track record. . .

And yet another sequel to a second-rate TV movie. Ricardo Montalban will sell secret wishes for $50,000 a pop in "Fantasy Island, II." Buyers include Adrienne Barbeau, Horst Bucholz, Joe Campanella, George Chakiris, Joseph Cotten, Pat Crowley, Laraine Day, George Maharis, Cameron Mitchell, France Nuyen, and Karen Valentine. . . Will it be "All About Eve" or "Wuthering Heights"? "Citizen Kane" or "Rocky"? The question is which of these or 46 other films will be selected by The American Film Institute as the greatest American film of all time? You'll have to wait until Nov. 21 to see how the 35,000 members of the American Film Institute voted, when CBS airs their annual presentation.

Our volunteers have brought so much comfort to our Wesleyan residents. They help those who are not able to be active on their own. We have enlisted eight new helpers recently. Kay Smith comes three days a week to direct the exercise class. Margaret Griffin visits and does anything else that needs to be done. Kim Spracklen helps in art crafts. The 42 games are directed by Earline Tubbs and Joan Wentreck. Ruby Peterson plays our devotional tape to those that are bedridden. Peggy Kemble helps with the earphones for reading, the record player, the tape recorder and the stereo. Jackie Richardson takes wheelchair patients outside. One of our residents Mrs. Aeri Adcock loves it so much that she insisted on staying outside two hours so that she could watch the birds. Before she became ill she used to spend most of each day in the yard caring for her birds and a small plot of ground allotted to her.

We now have 36 volunteers, but we need more. Please help us, even if it is for only an hour a week.

Our Wednesday morning devotional was led by Mrs. Edna McMaster.

Rev. Bill Arnold and his wife from the First Presbyterian Church in Taylor had supper with us Wednesday and afterward he brought us an inspirational message. Earl McLemore told us that he had just realized because it was his birthday month that the 1977 calendar year was the same as 1921. That year he had joined the Scottish Rite on his birthday. There were 400 there. He had buddied with several, but one in particular, Ernest Brewer, had become his best friend, a friendship that had lasted until his death. They had worked on the same job for 45 years.

Mrs. Claud Howard has returned from a 15 day visit with her sister, Mrs. M. F. Young of Dallas. She enjoyed seeing so many of her nieces and nephews that she had not seen in years. She was especially glad to see a friend that she had not seen in 70 years.

Mrs. Edna McMaster is home from a three week visit with her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Fox of Arlington, Virginia. She, too, had a good time.

Mrs. Lela Mae Ischy's son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ischy from Lago Vista, came to see her.

Mrs. W. W. DeVore from Jarrell visited Mrs. Verna Lea Harrison.

Mrs. Johnnie Lockridge's friends from Temple, Mrs. Floyd Foster and Mrs. Rose Watts, came to see her.

Mrs. Lettys Hester spent four days in Austin with her

Leander residents meet Monday to discuss proposed boundaries

Citizens interested in the incorporation of Leander will meet on Monday, October 3, at the Leander Baptist Church.

Boundaries and population figures for Leander will be discussed, said Johnny Perez, chairman of Citizens to Incorporate Leander.

RESIDENTS are expected to vote Monday on whether to begin incorporation proceedings.

Official boundaries and population figures for the proposed city will be revealed by the eight member committee appointed last month by the group.

THE MAIN REASON for the incorporation drive is to avoid Leander becoming part of Austin in future annexations, said Perez.

Before an election can be set, 50 registered voters must sign an incorporation petition and present it, along with proposed boundaries and a map of the area, to County Judge C. L. Chance.

Perez said that he thinks residents of Leander will decide to incorporate as a city rather than as a town or a village.

Florence council to meet Tuesday

The Florence City Council will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, October 4, at City Hall on Main Street in Florence.

As of late Friday morning no new business had been added to the agenda. The aldermen are, however, expected to hear a number of departmental reports and a special report from a council committee studying the Florence water district.

Thanks to you it works...

FOOTBALL CONTEST

PICK THE WINNERS AND WIN A PRIZE

Here's How You Play:

HERE WE GO AGAIN! It's football time -- and time for the annual County SUN Football Contest. If you're a Saturday morning armchair quarterback, you can enter this fun Contest and check up on yourself! Might even win a little money at it or a free theater ticket.

Here's a game to test your skill -- it's a game that the whole family can enjoy. Spread this page out on the kitchen table. Let everybody play. There'll be a new contest each week until about the middle of November. So ready, get set, GO!

- Win $10, $5 or $3 for first, second or third respectively
- Next five winners may pick up a free ticket to the Palace Theater!
- Pick up all prizes and theater tickets at The SUN.
- The only notification of the winners will be in the following week's issue.
- See this week's football games on this page.
- In each game, check the team you think will win. (You do NOT need to indicate score).
- Unless all games are marked, your entry will be automatically disqualified.
- Then to eliminate as nearly as possible any ties in this fun-test, every entry must have the score marked on "The Tie Breaker" game listed at right.
- Only one entry per person will be qualified, but as many from a family may enter as wish to do so -- except employees and families of the Williamson County SUN.
- You may enter the fun-test on this page. Or you may copy the games on another sheet of paper, indicating your pick in each game

- All entries must be brought to The SUN by 5:00 p.m. Friday or mailed with a postmark not later than 7:00 p.m. Friday of each week. The SUN will grade all entries, and The SUN's decision will be final and incontestable.
- Have FUN! And patronize the businesses who make this fun-test possible.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Wilbur Callaway

By the time you read this column, the Georgetown-Taylor football game will be a page in history and the Eagles may be boasting of a 4-0 record and winging their way into a titanic showdown with District 12AAA favorite Belton Friday night at Eagle Field as the highlight of 1977 Homecoming.

Or, in the event of a Duck victory, the Eagles may be trying to pick up the pieces of a shattered winning streak which stood at seven in a row going into the game.

Georgetown had not lost since midseason of last year, winning its last four starts of the 1976 season and its first three this season, and everybody in Central Texas had begun to sit up and take notice of the Eagles.

Almost everyone, that is. There were still some doubters, such as some unidentified coaches in the district who feel the Eagles will fall apart the first time they get beaten. Round Rock sports writer Charlie Loving said last week that the feeling among "some coaches" is that Georgetown is "riding for a fall."

Perhaps that's true, but don't try to convince Coach Les Johnson. He gets kinda hostile whenever that subject comes up. Seems as though he feels his team has more character than that, and I agree with him. I've watched the Eagles in workouts and scrimmages and ballgames, and I've seen a group of young men who don't know how to say quit.

They may lose to Taylor and to Belton, but I wouldn't bet any money against them because I feel they have an excellent chance to win both those games and maybe even go undefeated for the season. The Eagles have the desire, they have the talent, and they have some of the finest coaches I've ever seen on the high school level.

Add that to the solid backing of a dedicated group of fans from the city, a loyal student body and a man like Superintendent Jack Frost, and you've got the ingredients for a winning team.

The Texas Longhorns and Texas A&M Aggies, both undefeated and ranked among the top ten teams in the nation this week, had considerably different calibre of opposition Saturday afternoon.

The Longhorns, open last week after routs of Boston College and Virginia, faced their third weak team in a row when they entertained the Rice Owls in a Southwest Conference opener at Memorial Stadium. Rice, you'll recall, got slaughtered 77-0 last week by LSU.

But the Aggies, after whipping Texas Tech 33-17 last week in a big game, had their work cut out as they journeyed to Michigan to take on the unbeaten Wolverines, who are also ranked among the top teams in the country.

Nobody knows yet just how good Texas is, because the 'Horns haven't had to hardly break a sweat, but A&M certainly looks impressive and even if the Aggies lose at Michigan it won't be any disgrace. A lot of other good teams have lost at Michigan over the past few seasons.

The Southwest Conference race looks like it'll be a genuine donnybrook this season with Arkansas, Houston, Texas Tech and maybe Baylor joining Texas and A&M in the battle for the Cotton Bowl berth. Only Rice, SMU and TCU don't look capable of contending for the championship although any of the trio might pull an upset along the way which could scramble things.

And how about those Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers? Both are looking good so far, especially the Cowboys with that overtime win at Minnesota and then a solid victory over the New York Giants, who had beaten Washington a week earlier.

The Cowboys seem to be getting better all the time and with all those young players, they are certainly a team to be reckoned with for many years to come. You'd think they would drop off in ability when they lose guys like Lee Roy Jordan and Bob Lilly but they just keep coming up with new ones who do a great job.

The Adult Education Program, which is getting underway this week for a five or six week run at Georgetown High School, will include a course in the fundamentals of football.

Different coaches on the GHS staff will talk on various phases of the game during the course and it should prove to be very interesting to followers of the Eagles or just plain football fans. I understand there's a small fee for taking the course, but it should be well worth the time and money for anyone interested in learning more about the game of football.

The first session is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the GHS Fieldhouse.

Pirates tumble to Bears, Ags

Marathon volleyball was the game played between Southwestern University, Baylor and Texas A&M in Waco Tuesday. Withstanding 105 degree temperature in an unairconditioned gym, the Pirates faced two of the toughest competitors in the area.

In a four game match, the Baylor Bears defeated the Pirates in an evenly matched contest of spikes and serves, 15-4; 15-2; 10-15; 15-10.

During the Baylor game, Tina LaFuernte was the outstanding player of the evening with seven points gained while serving. Melissa Hardberger and Mary Klar played strong defensive games while Sharon Eoff and Tracy Strane also had some good plays.

In the second three out of five game match Texas A&M took Southwestern by scores of 15-4; 15-12; 15-2.

With her all around hustle and good defensive plays, Janice Doughty stole sure points from the Aggies.

A tough battle was fought between the two teams in the second game as the lead changed hands many times. After nearly 40 minutes of

SU second in meet

Southwestern University golfers edged Texas Lutheran for second place in the Southwest Texas State tournament at Wimberley Wednesday.

SWTSU won its own tournament with a 387 followed by Southwestern with a 406, TLC with a 408 and Trinity at 434.

Hilton Chancellor of TLC took medalist honors with a 75.

Southwestern's players were closely bunched with Clay Cornett firing a 78, Steve Wilkins 79, Rick Preston 80, Les Russell 83 and Gary Hammac 84. Other Pirate golfers playing were Steve Doering, 86, and Brad McCampbell, 89.

Next match for Southwestern will be Oct. 2-3 in a meet hosted by the University of Texas, Austin. Among the teams invited will be junior college power McClennan J.C., SWTSU, TLC, and Texas Wesleyan.

Eagles up to 22 on rankings

Georgetown's Eagles inched up one more notch this week in the Harris Ratings after an open date and are now ranked as the No. 22 team in the state in Class AAA.

The Eagles were picked as a one-point favorite over Taylor in their 12AAA showdown Friday night in Taylor, according to the ratings. Taylor is ranked 42nd on the poll.

Belton is still ranked highest of any 12AAA member, holding the ninth spot, while Round Rock is 77, Westlake 78, Lockhart 83, Del Valle 89 and Lampasas 135 on the ratings.

The Georgetown-Taylor game was picked as one of the feature battles of the week in the Central Texas area.

Coogs, Raiders lose star QBs

By PAUL ALEXANDER

In football, as in wars, it always seems to be the best soldiers that fall first. One need look no further than the Southwest Conference to support that thesis.

Just two weeks ago, the league sported two of the best quarterbacks in America. But now both Houston's Danny Davis and Texas Tech's Rodney Allison are in sick bay, probably for the season. Davis, of course, went down with a separated shoulder in the Cougars' loss to Penn State a couple of weeks ago, while Allison departed when something went crunch in his leg against the Aggies last Saturday. That leaves A&M's David Walker as the only truly veteran quarterback in the conference.

More importantly, the loss of Davis and Allison seriously impedes their respective teams' title hopes. Houston reserve quarterback Delrick Brown has been wildly erratic throughout his career at Cougarland, and Allison's replacement, Tres Adami, looked tentative and bewildered in the second half of the A&M game. Either Brown and Adami get their acts together in a big hurry, or Houston and Tech can bid adieu to what once looked like promising seasons.

THIS WEEK IN THE SWC
Texas A&M at MICHIGAN — I really think the Aggies have the better ballclub, but the Wolverines will find a way to win it in front of 104,000 fans in Ann Arbor. Michigan by 1.

ARKANSAS at TCU — The play the Aggies pulled ahead to win.

Overall, Coach Glada Munt was pleased with the players performance and feels that the recent drop in games was only temporary.

Southwestern is hosting such teams as Texas A&I University, Trinity University, Concordia Lutheran College and Pan American University in the Southwestern-Concordia Tournament which began Friday. The teams will complete the round robin starting at 9:30 Saturday, Oct. 1. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

There are so many outstanding leadership and personal traits about Roger Staubach that it is somewhat impossible to zero in on one or two that really separate the 35-year-old quarterback from the rest.

But two characteristics do come to mind when discussing how it is that this native of Silverton, Ohio (a suburb of Cincinnati), continues to provide unquestioned leadership on the Dallas Cowboys.

They are Staubach's "never-beaten" spirit and the manner in which he drives himself to perfection. He is, indeed, a perfectionist when working at his craft.

Staubach is one player who seems impossible to hold at bay. He exemplifies the old never-say-die attitude and has a track record to prove it.

Roger's best-remembered

"never beaten" performances came in two divisional playoff contests—San Francisco in 1972 and at Minnesota in 1975.

In the former, Staubach returned from pre-season shoulder surgery and a season of inactivity to fire a pair of final-minute touchdown passes and snatch a 30-28 victory from the 49ers when all seemed lost.

In the latter, the now famous "Hail Mary" game, Staubach hooked up with Drew Pearson on a desperation 50-yard TD pass in the final half-minute.

Staubach was back to torment the Vikings again two weeks ago, leading the Cowboys to a 16-10 win with a four-yard touchdown run in overtime. It was the first Vikings home loss since the Hail Mary game two years ago.

Basketball clinic scheduled at SU

Southwestern University will hold an area basketball clinic in its new Sid W. Richardson Physical Education Center on Oct. 19 at 8 p.m.

The clinic, which is free of charge and open to all interested Central Texas basketball coaches, will feature National Junior College Coach of the Year, Dan Wall, now the basketball coach at Southwest Texas State. He led Independence (Kansas) to the national championship.

The clinic, will also feature two successful area high school coaches:

—Gail Simpson of Reagan in Austin led his team to a district championship before

Eagles fall to Westlake

Georgetown High's Eagles dropped a tight volleyball battle to Westlake Wednesday night, losing the final varsity contest 18-16, after splitting two earlier games.

The Eagles won 15-3 before Westlake took a 15-13 decision and then the marathon 18-16 win.

Georgetown won the JV competition, beating Westlake 15-12 and 15-13, sandwiched around a 14-12 second-game decision in favor of the visiting Chaps.

The Eagles will host Del Valle Monday with gametime set for 5 p.m. for the JV action and 6 p.m. for the varsity.

Never one to flaunt his undaunted spirit, Staubach simply stated in the locker room following the game: "I took a lucky bounce into the end zone off (Vikings middle linebacker) Jeff Siemon. If he would have hit me head-on, I probably would have ended up on the 10 yard line."

But Staubach's never beaten attitude is topped only by his drive to be a perfectionist.

After picking the New York Giants apart last Sunday (18 of 29 passes for 235 yards and one touchdown), Staubach wasn't ready to personally accept the locker room bouquets being tossed him by interviewing reporters.

With typical patience, Staubach told a knot of writers and broadcasters around him, "I know of three passes in the second half that I missed on third downs that kinda hurt us. I threw a little high to Robert Newhouse on third and four, and missed Drew Pearson by throwing one behind him, and there was another one when I overthrew Preston (Pearson) on a rollout right at the start of the second half. It was a big play because he was wide open."

"We just missed a couple passes or otherwise we could have controlled the ball." As it turned out, the Cowboys did not salt the game away until five minutes into the fourth quarter when Tony Dorsett ran 34 yards for a touchdown and an insurmountable 20-point lead.

bowing in the regional finals at San Antonio.

—Gerald Adams, head coach at Seguin High School, will also demonstrate some of the drills which have produced outstanding teams at Rockdale and Seguin.

The clinic will be entirely drill orientated, with floor demonstrations by each coach illustrating various teaching techniques.

The Southwestern University Pirates, under Coach John Edwards, will serve for the purpose of demonstration drills involving the fast break, pressure defense, rebounding, ball handling, defense and shooting.

Always one to laud his teammates' efforts, Staubach praised Drew Pearson on two catches that came later in the second half. "I came back to Drew because he made good adjustments. He caught two on that one drive when he wasn't even the (primary) receiver. The guys were open, running good routes. I should have hit him quicker."

Staubach also praised the running of Newhouse, Preston Pearson, and Dorsett before someone reminded him that the offense netted 444 yards for the day.

"That's a good total offense figure," Staubach admitted. "That's where we were early last year. When you get that many yards, it's a good team effort by the offense and everyone on the unit is contributing."

"I personally believe our team is going to improve as the season goes on. Our offense can get better and will."

Then Staubach loosened up from the 100-plus degree temperatures (on the field), the steamy locker room atmosphere, and his usual game-day tenseness, long enough to smile about getting roughed by the Giants during the first half. Following the personal foul call, Coach Tom Landry inserted back-up quarterback Danny White in the game.

"He (Landry) has great confidence in Danny too," said Staubach. "After they called the personal foul, Tom got me out of there and told me to 'take it easy for a little bit'. I also was having cramps in my legs from the heat and he wasn't going to keep me in there very long because of my condition. I was fine though—able to go back in."

Staubach, as all around him know, would want to go back in even with several broken bones. It's the perfectionist in him that drives him to never be beaten, to never give up the ship.

Isn't that the way it is with every good Naval officer?

Tide turns on Eagles' teams

It had to happen sooner or later — after winning 17 of their first 22 games with only two losses and three ties, the tide turned for Georgetown football teams Thursday.

The Eagles dropped five of six games in JV, Frosh and Jr. High action with the Junior Varsity "A" team managing the only victory, and 18-0 decision over Taylor.

The Junior Varsity "B" team fell 16-6 to Copperas Cove, the Freshman team lost to Taylor 40-8, the Eighth Grade "A" team dropped a cliff-hanger to Taylor 22-14 and the Seventh Grade teams both lost to Taylor, 24-0 in the "A" game and 14-0 in the "B" contest.

Eddie Valdez scored on a 70-yard run, Ricky Coulson passed 60 yards to Randy Smith and Coulson scrambled 30 yards for another TD on a broken play to spark the Junior Varsity "A" team victory. Coach Ronnie Hubby said the Eagles played with a lot of enthusiasm and praised the defensive efforts of Able Zavala, Valdez and Steve Sappington.

Charles Ashby got the lone TD for the Junior Varsity "B" team on a 50-yard run. Bennett Johnson, Tim Magness, Gary Jones and Edward Valdez, who booted a 60-yard quick kick to the Taylor three, were singled out for praise.

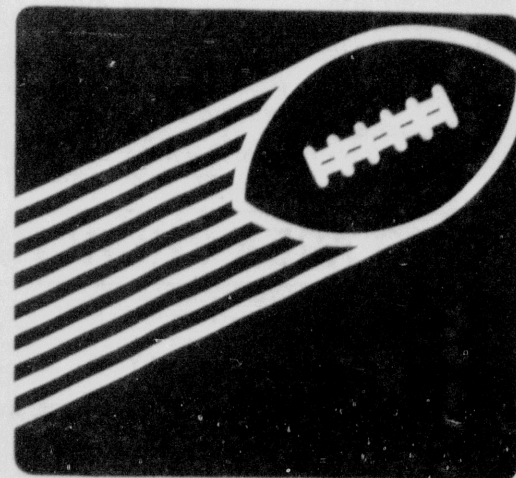

Mike King scored on a 10-yard run and the Eagle Freshmen broke several other good runs but were plagued by fumbles in their loss.

Fumbles also hurt the Eighth Grade Eagles, who turned over the ball six times. "Our kids played well but we had some breakdowns in key situations," Coach Steve Phillips said.

Taylor scored first on a 15-yard pass but Doug Jackson tallied for the Eagles on a 22-yard run and a 50-yard pass interception, plus an extra point run, to give Georgetown a 14-8 halftime lead.

Taylor tied it up on a 30-yard pass and then won the game with 19 seconds left on a 20-yard pass after recovering an Eagle fumble at the Georgetown 20.

Dad's steady influence is needed for . . .

LIFE'S OBSTACLES

We can easily see physical obstacles such as logs, boulders, and many other things that may be too difficult for our children to handle, but things that are not physical are not always so obvious. A young child needs help from his parents in spiritual matters too. The church can be an influence on children's lives, but when you, a parent, are taking part in church worship, you can be an even greater influence. Give your children, the leaders of the future, a hand now when they need it most. Take them to church regularly . . . and you too, will have a fuller and better life.

ATTEND CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Liberty Hill NEWS

By Howard N. Wilson

This is the weekend for the big sale on Liberty Hill Square. "Liberty Hill Market Day" is Saturday, October 1, from 9 a.m. until dark you will find in the many booths varied items of interest which will surely include something you would like to have.

According to the latest report a very large number of exhibitors are planning to come as is demonstrated by the fact that most of the booths were already reserved as of last Tuesday evening. Liberty Hill Market Day is always a big event, so you will be just one of many who will find a friendly atmosphere where you can enjoy being among people you know and people you should know. This is always a good place to find new friends. Do Come!

The Liberty Hill Arts and Crafts Fair will be held on Saturday, October 15, from 11 a.m. until dark on Liberty Hill Square in downtown LH. At this big event you will find only handmade items of quality and beauty from paintings to pottery. Almost any type of artistic creations will be on exhibit at a reasonable price. Crafts such as quilting, which many people once did is now a very specialized craft done by only a few, and you will find them represented here. Be sure to make plans to attend the Arts and Crafts Fair.

The Liberty Hill Garden Club has proclaimed Jane Allman the winner of the plaque for the September yard of the month, and Dottie Klein won second place as Garden Club members. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davis were awarded the plaque as nonmembers, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Edwards won second place. Honorable mention was given to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McLeod and Mrs. R. L. DeSpain. The inspection team from the Garden Club noted that the school grounds are very well groomed, and so was the Smith Cemetery on Highway 1869. The ladies observed that the cleanup and beautification in general of our town is very noticeable, and we concur that the Liberty Hill Garden Club has been instrumental in generating this interest in our community to have beautifully groomed yards. Let's keep up the good work, everybody.

The Liberty Hill FFA will hold a "Spaghetti Supper" on Thursday, October 20, at the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria. Tickets are available from any FFA member. The FFA Chapter, its members and its supervisor, David Brizendine, will deeply appreciate your support, and you will enjoy a good spaghetti supper.

To correct an erroneous report of last week, there are fifty-six members in the Liberty Hill FFA Chapter instead on the eighty that was reported—sorry about that.

Coach Bill Bowie's Junior High Football Team played at Hutto on Thursday, Sept. 22, where they did very well in the first half when Hutto scored only one when they deflected a pass for an easy TD and an 8-0 lead. Hutto's superior size and experience showed in the second half when they exploded for three touchdowns.

Our Panthers played very well on defense considering that they have had less than a week and a half of practice and only four returning starters from the team of last year. The defensive players exhibited supreme effort, but they just could not seem to get untraced.

The outstanding ball carriers were Harvey Holbrook with 9-yards on four carries, John Allman with 15-yards on seven carries, and Edward Pina with 25-yards on five carries.

The outstanding defensive players were Mark Sullins with 7 assisted and 2 unassisted tackles, John Allman with a fumble recovery, 11 assisted tackles and 1 unassisted tackle, Mitch Walker with 13 assisted and 1 unassisted tackle. Harvey Holbrook, the "Super mite" had 13 assisted tackles and 5 unassisted tackles, plus a pass interception and a fumble recovery. Mike Schwabe also had a fumble recovery and a pass interception.

The Liberty Hill Panther Junior Varsity under the direction of Coach Joe Gregg struck like lightning in the first half of the game with Hutto last Thursday when they scored twice on long runs and carried the pigskin over from the seven-yard line for a third marker.

Early in the first quarter Maurice Stephens took a pitch on an option play and outran the Hippo secondary for a fifty-seven yard touchdown. Again in the second quarter, Steven Moore broke up the middle and ran eighty-two yards for a TD. Later in the second quarter Loni Loyd sprinted in from the seven yard line for a score, and Tony Lovelady tallied two points when he took an option pitch in for the conversion.

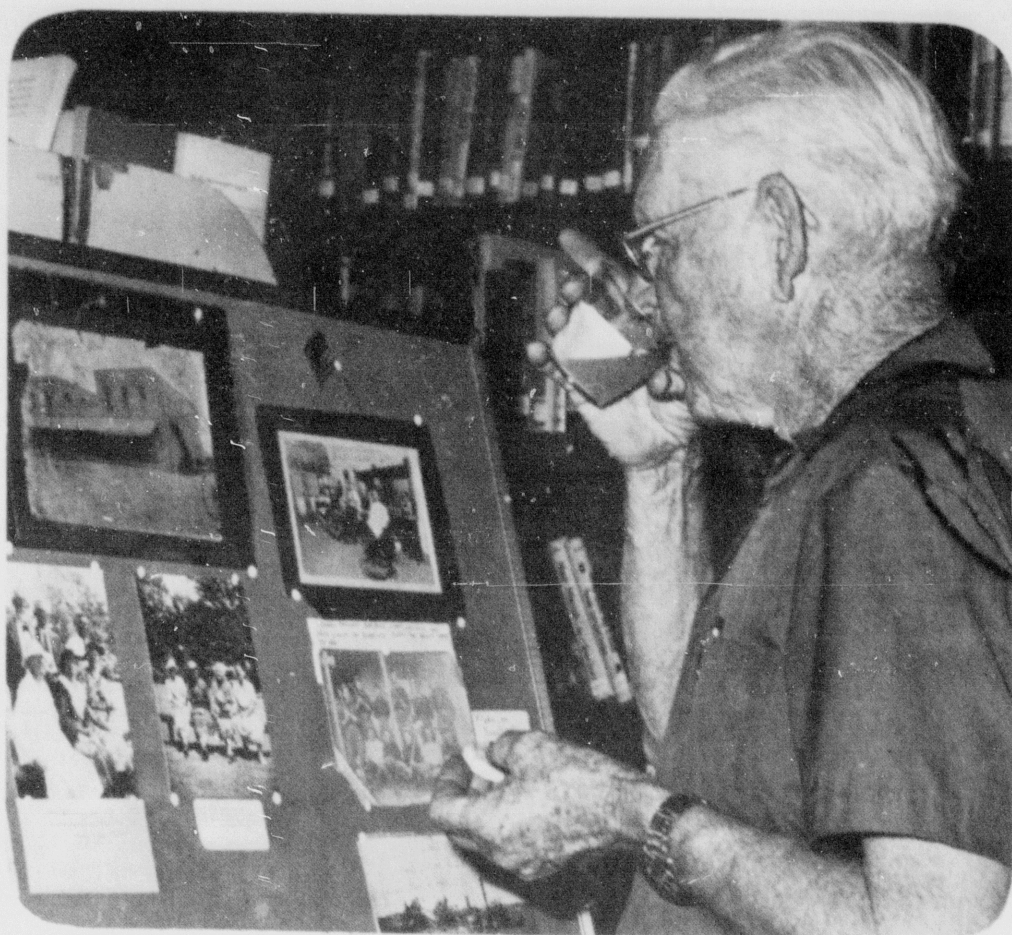

Hutto managed to score on one drive on a surprise pass play in the first half. In the second half both defenses toughened, and the scoring ceased.

The Panthers looked good on defense all evening with Steve Sutton, Doug Cantrell, Dan Payne, and Jessie Pearson turning in outstanding performances. Tough linebacking work was turned in by Keith Clark, Maurice Stephens, Eddie Hernandez, and Glen Schwabe. Outstanding blocking in the line was contributed by Marvin Cantrell, Rickey Dycus, Anthony Stephens, George Glass, Chris Laurimore and Steve Sutton.

On October 6, both the Liberty Hill Junior High and the Liberty Hill Junior Varsity will play at Rogers with the games starting at 6 p.m. The next game for the Panther Varsity will be on October 7, at Rogers starting at 7:30 p.m.

Sell cottonseed for cattle feed

Cottonseed sold this year to feed cattle and not to offset ginning costs may make growers more money.

Dr. Delmer I. Davis, a livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, thinks so.

A cow-calf man may pay cotton growers more for their seed than a ginner.

THE GIN PRICE for cottonseed closely is related to the market price for lint, and the projected market price this year about equals production costs.

Davis says whole cottonseed require little processing to be fed, contain about 20 per cent natural protein, and provide from 20 to 25 per cent more feed-energy than most commercial grain cubes containing 20 per cent protein. Up to five pounds of cottonseed can be fed each cow per day.

Feed-energy is critically short for a lactating cow on nearly all native ranges during the winter, the time when producers must provide supplemental energy and protein.

WHOLE COTTONSEED are also usually a good source of phosphorus, a mineral deficient in all Texas as ranges. Producers must provide it as a supplement if calf growth and cow reproduction are to be maximized.

A cattleman should consider feeding whole cottonseed when its price per pound does not exceed the price for two-fifths pound of cottonseed meal containing 41 per cent protein, said Davis.

Because the feeder usually cannot buy cottonseed direct from the gin, Davis recommends that the cotton grower retain ownership of the seed even after the ginning so that he may sell them later. Such direct selling, said Davis, means more profit because it eliminates a middleman.

Despite the advantages to feeding cottonseed, Davis says the cowman ought to be aware that the seed are harder to handle than wheat or shelled corn, require more storage space, and do not move as easily through an auger. The oil in the seed can also turn rancid if they are stored too long, particularly in a hot summer.

DISCOVER 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER
& EDWARD WILKIE

The 4-H Council met Monday night and elected new officers for the year. They are: president Elaine Lange of Thrall; vice president Cass Winterrowd of Thrall; secretary Jan Hajda of Granger; and treasurer Michael Lidell of Jonah.

These officers will lead 4-H through the coming year. Lange and Winterrowd will also represent Williamson County on the District 4-H Council.

The purpose of the 4-H Council is to help plan and carry out 4-H activities and events, support 4-H in every way, and encourage and assist younger members.

The following rules in the 1977 rules and regulations for the 1977 Williamson County Livestock Show were in error and should be changed to read as follows:

Rule No. 1 —

"COMPETITION — is open to all active 4-H and FFA Members of Williamson County enrolled in Williamson County Grammar, Junior High or High School, as certified by the Vocational Agriculture Teacher or County Agent. Livestock owned by 4-H or FFA Chapters are not eligible for competition in this Show."

Rule No. 13 should read:

"FAT STOCK DIVISION — An exhibitor may enter three market animals or three entries in one of the following: Turkeys, Rabbits and Broilers. The total shall not exceed four entries per Exhibitor."

Special attention should also be given to Rule No. 7. All lambs and barrows to be exhibited in this year's Williamson County Livestock Show must be ear marked Saturday, October 8, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon at the new livestock show barn to be eligible for this year's show. Do not bring breeding animals. If your lamb and/or barrow is not ear marked by the livestock show association committee on Saturday, October 8, you will not be able to show that animal in the Williamson County Livestock Show.

THE FIRST MEETING for Georgetown 4-H Horse Club members interested in participating in horse judging activities will be held this Saturday, October 1, at 1 p.m. in the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Arena. For additional information and future meetings contact Monte Walton at 863-5983.

The Georgetown 4-H Livestock Project Group will conduct a project tour this Sunday, October 2, beginning at 2 p.m. in front of the new livestock show barn in San Gabriel Park. All Georgetown 4-H livestock show group members are encouraged to attend.

4-H award banquet will be Monday

The Williamson County 4-H Awards Banquet will be held on Monday, October 3, at 7 p.m. in the S.P.J.S.T. Hall on Highway 79 east of Taylor.

Each year the 4-H adult leaders attempt to thank you and express their appreciation to "Friends of 4-H" who have helped during the year. The program will last approximately two hours.

Garden Club names judges

The placement show which the Georgetown Garden Club is presenting on October 14, is to be judged by judges from the Capitol City Judges Council in Austin.

Mrs. Cecil Cabaniss had consented to evaluate the arrangements which will be displayed in Mrs. Burl Brooks' home. The judging will be oral, and those who are going to make arrangements will have the privilege of listening to the good points and the correctable points of their floral efforts.

The judging will be done from 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon, at which time the doors will be open for those who want to tour the home and see the arrangements. The cost will be only $1 per person.

On the porch outside there will be bargain plants for sale and a profusion of baked goods. We hope that many Georgetown citizens will come to enjoy the show and to support our project, all proceeds of which will go into town beautification.

Historical Commission sponsors forum Saturday at Southwestern

The Williamson County Historical Commission and the Capitol Area Planning Council (CAPCO) are to sponsor a Forum Saturday, October 1, in the Student Union of Southwestern University in Georgetown.

The event is an effort to develop a balance between regional development and the preservation of natural and cultural resources and it is designed to encourage the exchange of information about local area resources. The Forum will focus on developing a community appreciation and understanding of cultural resource value.

A. Ahlgreen of Taylor, Claude Kennard of Georgetown, Jeff Townsend and Loree Neiman of Round

Rock are coordinating the event, which was stimulated by a grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

All county schools, communities and organizations were invited to participate in the Forum schedule with displays and questions.

Displays and exhibits of old photographs depicting community life, industries and buildings in Williamson County were accepted and other art displays, restricted to realistic pictures and photographs of county life were to be displayed.

The Forum will open at 1 p.m. in the Southwestern University Student Union with displays and it will continue through the afternoon. A slide show, introductions and music by ethnic groups were scheduled.

The actual Forum and introduction of panelists is to begin at 3 p.m. with public discussions scheduled to last through the closing at 5 p.m.

At 2 p.m. Williamson County Commissioner Carl Liddell and a CAPCO Executive Committee member will make the official introductions and opening statements.

Music presentations will begin at 2:15 p.m. and a slide show is set for 2:35 p.m.

The public discussion will get started at 2:50 p.m. and technical panelists will be introduced and will discuss planning considerations.

At 3:30 p.m. the public discussion will focus on resources specific to Williamson County. Natural and cultural areas will also be considered for discussion.

Music will again be presented at 4:30 p.m. and a local civic leader will wrap-up the afternoon with a conclusion speech at 4:50 p.m.

rating is a piddling investment."

MY INVESTMENT ADVISOR explained that the difference between BBB and BBB+ ratings would be 10 to 20 basis points. A basis point equals one hundredth of one percent, so ten basis points on a $1.8 million bond issue would equal $1800. "So if they spent $2,000 and got upgraded, they'd get back their investment in one year," he said.

"It probably wouldn't have been a downside risk for them not to make the trip," he admitted. "It's extremely unlikely that they would have been downgraded unless the school district had done something really bad. If they just sat there in Georgetown, they probably would have gotten the same rating as they had before."

"Theoretically, a personal appearance shouldn't make a difference. Theoretically, the ratings are based strictly on the numbers. If you read the Moody's and Standard and Poor's rating manuals, they say the ratings are based on numbers, although they do talk about 'quality of management,' that sort of thing. But in reality, these rating specialists are swayed by the people they see. And they can be swayed by arguments that people make about the numbers."

"IF A LITTLE ISSUE like this didn't come to New York, the raters just say: 'Well, let's leave it the way it is,' unless something spectacular has happened. They won't improve the rating unless someone comes up and makes a pitch. It shouldn't be that way, but it is. If we had been the GISD financial advisers, we would have advised those people to come up. The effort certainly should be made."

Now, I know more about municipal bond ratings than I've ever wanted to know. And they turn out to be a game, just like everything else. Too bad. But we done ok, anyway.

★Pot plane

The Dove hunters reported that three men had hurriedly left the scene in a pick-up truck.

The plane, another pick-up truck, several barrels of gasoline, fuel pumps, some personal belongings and a quantity of 9 mm hollow point ammunition were left behind.

THE EVIDENCE at the scene indicated that when the three men were surprised by the dove hunters they had been in the process of installing a portable long range fuel tank and converting the aircraft to haul marijuana from Mexico.

Numerous aerial charts covering a large area in Mexico were reported found at the scene.

Seats in the plane had been removed, and investigators estimated that it could carry approximately 1,400 pounds of highly compressed marijuana.

A SMALL substance of marijuana was found in the plane.

All Georgetown High School ex-students who plan to attend the 1977 Homecoming activities Friday and Saturday are asked to fill out and return immediately the form which accompanies this story.

Rodney and Jane Montgomery, Presidents of the Georgetown Ex-Students Association, ask that all exes possible be on hand for the Homecoming Game, which will match the Eagles against Belton's Tigers in a District 12AAA showdown battle.

Registration for the Homecoming activities will be from 7 to 8 p.m. Friday at Eagle Field, followed by the football game and at a get-together for all ex-students and their families at the Union Building on the Southwestern University campus at 10 p.m.

Saturday's schedule includes a 10 a.m. visitation period at the High School, followed by a short business meeting and the barbecue luncheon at 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

An "unschoolish" approach to math may help, suggests Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist. "Weigh or measure fruits and vegetables, count window panes, multiply one times the number of family members to find the dinner count, or find the number of square feet in the carport," the specialist suggests.

Fire Prevention Week planned

Fire Prevention Week is observed in the United States each October. This year the date is Oct. 9-15.

The Oct. 9 date is the anniversary of "The Great Chicago Fire" of 1871 which marked the real start of community effort to prevent fires instead of concentrating only on putting them out.

WOODROW WILSON, in 1920, was the first President to issue a national proclamation in observance of what was then Fire Prevention Day. This tradition has been officially recognized by every successive President to this day.

The toll of the Chicago fire of 1871 was monumental in terms of the young frontier city and of the economy of those days: 250 lives lost, 17,430 buildings destroyed, and an estimated $168 million in property lost.

TODAY, fires continue to kill an average of 32 persons in the U.S. each day, adding up to more than 10,000 lives lost each year, said Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
